The focus for this year’s conference is finding out the “Secrets” to success. Most of our presentations will be presented by award winning middle schools in the state of Arkansas. AAMLE is focused on helping all schools to meet the demands of the changing educational system and to support all schools in their endeavor to ensure “success” of all students.

Consider this a special invitation to attend this conference. We want to help your school achieve their goal of making the necessary changes to make AYP and provide interventions and actions for your 2010 – 2011 ACSIP Plan.

Janet Vernon

Janet Vernon spent 22 years in middle level education teaching English, Reading, Science and Social studies to middle level students and was a real passion of hers. Yet, her service as a middle school assistant principal and principal proved to be gratifying as well. For the past 10 years, Jane has worked as a Secondary Curriculum Director in Bartesville, Oklahoma and is currently the Executive Director of Teaching and Learning in Oklahoma City Public Schools. A 26 year membership in the Oklahoma Middle Level Educator's Association provided her an awareness of immediate professional needs of middle level educators across the state. As conference chair of the Oklahoma Middle Level Educator's Association for several years, she revised the state conference for middle level educators. She has served on the National Middle School Board of Trustees for the past nine years and is currently serving as Past President. Janet has facilitated and supervised effective academic programs. Professional development presentations and personal service to educators continue to be a desire of hers. She holds multiple memberships in professional organizations and remains active in them.
